

Monday Night Acting Workshop is not a class. We don't teach acting. The workshop is for professional working actor members. The workshop represents the foundational objective of Theatre West's original members: to create a space where entertainment professionals can come together with their diverse training, interests, and backgrounds in a secure environment to hone their craft and collaborate in creating powerful live theatre performance art. Is there a scene or short play you and a colleague want to work on together? Work on it and bring it to Monday night. Do you need to prepare a monologue for an audition? Bring it to Monday night. Is there a role you know you are not the right "type," but deep down inside, you would love to play it? Play it on Monday night.

The stakes are highest when actors challenge themselves, commit to the process, and attend the workshop. As we like to say, "What you put into it is what you will get out of it."
